

The KING is back @ Eating House...

FOLLOWING on from the success and popularity of the New Year's Eve with Elvis Party 2005, Elvis is back at Eating House Restaurant in Rowville for one show only, on Saturday 22nd July.

With pre-dinner drinks and a 5-course Elvis Presley themed dinner menu, tickets ($49 adults/$20 children) are already selling fast.

The talented kitchen brigade, led by Chef Chris Nelson, has designed a delicious menu that includes classic American fare rumoured to be favourites of the King himself! A sneak preview revealed Texan onion rings with hickory BBQ sauce, West Tennessee baby back BBQ ribs, Tupelo chicken tenders with honey mustard sauce, the Memphis 10oz burger, Graceland 450g T-bone Steak, Las Vegas fish burger and Kentucky State chicken drumsticks seasoned in 22 different herbs and spices. And after a decadent dessert of rocky road smothered with hot chocolate fudge sauce, there will be donuts and lots of them to go around! Viva Eating House!!

Melbourne entertainer Sean Spiteri, the man behind the "Elvis Rocks in Sean" Elvis Presley tribute show, has been acclaimed as one of the finest Elvis impersonators in Australia. Sean's tribute show is a musical journey that takes you back through the Elvis years and is always a night to remember. The show consists of three sets - Elvis, the '68 comeback, Elvis, the Las Vegas years and finally Sean performs a set of 60's, 70's and 80's rock and roll. And after the show, you can dance the night away with the entire Eating House family.

With the combination of a spectacular show, great food, friendly staff and a warm and fun atmosphere, the Elvis tribute show at Eating House is one event that you simply do not want to miss.
